- C. whereas recent restrictive legislative amendments led to further repression against civil society, including human right defenders, independent media and defence lawyers; whereas, however, an improvement of the situation of human rights was discernible in 2012;
- D. whereas the European Dialogue on Modernisation with Belarusian society launched in 2012 has had a positive impact on the development of civil society in Belarus;
- E. whereas there are still political prisoners in Belarus;
- 1. Addresses the following recommendations to the High Representative of the Union for Foreign Affairs and Security Policy / Vice-President of the Commission (HR/VP), the EEAS, the Council, the Commission and the Member States: that they should
  - a. reiterate the need for the unconditional and immediate release and rehabilitation of the political and civic rights of all remaining political prisoners to be a prerequisite for a gradual lifting of EU restrictive measures and for a substantial upgrade in EU-Belarus relations;

On political dialogue

- b. use Lithuania's Presidency and the Eastern Partnership Summit in Vilnius as unique opportunities to improve relations with Belarus, including with a view to restarting the political dialogue on, inter alia, democratic reforms and respect for the rule of law, human rights and fundamental freedoms;
- c. consider the suspension of key officials from the EU visa ban list with a view to broadening the main and essential diplomatic communication channel with Belarus, also in view of the Eastern Partnership summit;
- d. prepare a strategic 'roadmap', inspired by the Joint Interim Plan, including both priority areas for reforms in Belarus and proposals on enhanced political dialogue, which could eventually lead to a relaunch of negotiations on a new comprehensive agreement; in the same vein, consult the European Parliament on the inclusion of new proposals concerning interparliamentary relations, both bilaterally and within the Euronest Parliamentary Assembly;
- e. ensure, in line with Article 24 TEU, the unreserved support of the Member States for the EU's position on Belarus and the compliance of their bilateral relations with the EU's actions;
- f. increase contacts with officials in order to foster openness of mind towards the EU and to enhance EU-Belarus cooperation;
- g. encourage the authorities to fully participate in the Dialogue on Modernisation aimed at developing a competitive economy, a pluralistic society and the rule of law;
- h. encourage civil society and the political opposition to increase their involvement in this Dialogue and further support it through enhanced financial assistance and expertise;

- i. envisage all available policy options with the view to ensure that Belarus:
- fully implements electoral code reforms on the basis of OSCE/ODIHR recommendations;
  - lifts all restrictions imposed on the democratic opposition;
  - fully modernises the judiciary in line with international standards;
  - works towards the abolition of the death penalty;
  - reforms its Criminal Code and in particular article 193(1) on participation in unregistered organisations;
  - allows access for representatives of the relevant international organisations and members of families to all Belarusian prisons;
  - removes any existing obstacles to NGO registration;
  - guarantees effective freedom of and access to the media;
  - creates an independent and fully functional ombudsman;
  - ensures equal opportunities for, and the inclusion and non-discrimination of, all minorities;

On economic and energy cooperation

- j. make use of the constructive EU-Belarus technical dialogue on macroeconomic developments and financial issues to achieve a credible commitment by Belarus to gradual macroeconomic and structural reforms including gradual and socially responsible privatisation of state-owned enterprises; price, trade and banking system liberalisation; the development of an appropriate social safety net and the fight against corruption;
- k. further emphasise that the above reforms would also facilitate European investments and international loans as well as the negotiations for WTO accession;

On civil society and people-to-people contacts

- u. increase the share of projects with greater benefit to and visibility for the population at large, which would foster citizens’ understanding of EU policies and stress the advantages of its model and expertise;
- v. intensify technical and financial support to civil society organisations, independent NGOs, independent media, human rights defenders and trade unions based in Belarus or in the Member States; also significantly upgrade the communication and dissemination of EU information in order to develop citizens’ understanding of the EU’s approach to fundamental rights and freedoms and the need for social and economic progress;
- w. consider unilaterally facilitating the issuing of visas and reducing their cost from EUR 60 to an affordable level for Belarusian citizens, and making full use of the existing flexibilities offered by the Visa Code, including the waiver or reduction of fees for short-stay visas; also consider unilaterally reducing or waiving the visa fees for long-stay visas;
- x. call on the Belarusian authorities to start negotiations with the EU on visa facilitation and readmission agreements with the long-term view of a visa-free regime to promote people-to-people contacts and take urgent measures on implementing local border traffic agreements with Poland and Lithuania;
- y. seek to provide more education and research opportunities in the EU for Belarusians, including the provision of further support for the European Humanities University, and to develop and support education and vocational programmes within Belarus;
